

A fair election requires that the means of education express fairly the views of parties to the election. When money determines which views receive the widest coverage, then it is money, rather than democratic decision making, that determines the outcome.

Please, folks, let's side with democracy.

Raymond Barglow